

OUR GATHERING

OF LOCAL AND TERRITORIAL NEWS.

The Daily Tombstone Will Issue an Eight Page Paper Monday Evening.

County Records—his opinion—Dinner was not ready.

Look out for Monday's paper. Read the new advertisement of Sheriff's sale in another column.

Hou W. K. Meade left this morning for Tucson.

Bikes Godrich returned last evening from Phoenix much improved in health.

T. Atchison received a large consignment of stoves and hardware this morning.

About 200,000 pounds of new grain have been stored in the Phoenix warehouses for this season.—Phoenix Herald.

We learn that Jameson McKinley will visit Tombstone within a week, to inspect some mining properties.

A scrapping match took place at the Phoenix saloon just now, but outside of a couple of blows no damage was done.

Wyatt Earp—one of the proprietors of the ranch on smoke in Aspen, Col. His partner is Horace C. Hughes.

Aver's Saraceno wonderfully improves the complexion, and brings old and young the bloom of health. As a provider of the blood it has equal.

Felix B. Taylor, attorney; J. Hartmann, M. McEachen, Bishop; Thomas Bruce, W. H. Taylor, Edward G. Hall, city physician, Arlinton, Hereford; are registered at the Occidental hotel.

The Schleffelin brothers, of this city, have leased the Graveyard mine of the Tombstone district to Messrs. Sharp & Coy for one year.—Los Angeles Express.

Send Monday's issue of The Tombstone to your friends abroad, as it will contain a complete description of the mines, pines, etc.

The adobes and materials for the erection of the new Silver City station are all on the ground and the building will be completed as soon as possible.

The new saloon of Stevenson & Crowley, next door to this office, is almost completed and will be thrown open to the public in a few days.

Mr. Frank R. Austin of the Passage store who has been absent sometime from Tombstone in California for the benefit of his health, returned last evening much improved.

The city council of Prescott recently fined the chief of police of the capitalburg, $50, for using language more forcible than wise, to the council or some member.—Phoenix Herald.

Leave your orders at this office for extra copies of Monday's issue of the Tombstone, which will contain a complete review of Cochise county, agriculture, cattle raising and mining.

Among the Arizona people now in Aspen, Colorado, there are Jas. F. Treadwell, formerly of Tucson; John Molloy, of Fish & Molloy, Quigley; Wm. L. Brown, George Perkins, and Henry Fay, of Tombstone.

Thomas J. Biggs, one of the solid citizens of Sulphur Spring valley, is in town from his ranch. Mr. Biggs is on his way to Saguaro, where he will get a sign of cattle and drive them to his ranch in the Sulphur Spring valley.

Mary ladies always gray hair—on some other person—but how care to try it effects on their own charms. Nor need they since A. C. Hall's Wig wags look grayish to the young and older. It cleanses the scalp, prevents dandruff, and stimulates the growth of the hair in youth.

"A collection will be taken up," said the minister. "Dame Sykes, will you?" said—"and this good man awaking suddenly, with his hand full of hymn books, responded: "No, I'll under it up, by thunder!" and then the minister dead beat a look and the good man passed out.

Remember that Messrs. Meagher & Perkins extend a cordial invitation to the business and professional men of Tombstone to attend the opening of their new Club Room to-morrow evening. Remember that the rooms are the most handsomely fitted up of any south of San Francisco.

Sunday afternoon upon the arrival of the train from the south, a telephone was sent to Ponet & Orr's to bring down the coroner, and a corollary, that Chapman had died suddenly on the train. The coroner happened to be close at hand and answered the summons immediately. Upon investigation it was found that he died from overheat in coming across the desert. His body was removed to the morgue, where an inquest will be held.—Los Angeles Express.

The Contention and Grand Central pumps will commence to drain the water out of the mines on Sunday next, and in this connection we would suggest that the stars and stripes be raised on the public buildings, and that all citizens who have flags throw them to the breeze on that day. Let us make Sunday next a gay day, for on that day the foundation for the future prosperity of this city and county will be laid. Let everybody jolly on Sunday.

His Opinion.

A little criticism at the expense of Tucson, too good to be lost, and one that will be appreciated by its sister towns in this territory, took place last evening. Judge J. S. Robinson was leisurely enjoying the evening breeze with his cigar in his hand in front of the law house, when an individual came smiling up and suggested sending positions, and arrested the judge with the abrupt question: "Do you (do) live here?"

"No sir, I'm a (h) stranger in this town," replied the Ursine Blacksmith, with an effort to imitate the accent obtained dental and physical condition of his interlocutor.

"Well, said the whimsical individual, I do. I've been smilling this (d) d—town for two years now, and in the (d) reas'ns you don't get energy enough to (d) buy it out and buy it. G o l y,"—Chish.

Dinner was not Ready.

A young and physician of this city was killed during the present week. He took a new road out of the usual line. A boy in his slippers failed to catch any resonance of the bell which was rung to call him to dinner. After repeated inquiries findings the master of the house unable to ascertain the reason, he found the kitchen attended, and no preparations made for the most interesting part of the day—providing the midday meal. Upon knocking at the cook's room he found the smoking glass covered as from a funeral, the utensils in mud with thick faces to the wall, and the little barefooted Indian to escape. On the last full adobe and smoke, he became busy, the cook, still in the habitments of the touch, and willing as ever, called for the Lord to take him as he had this last day to do. She released the come back again to the ways of this world until the physician being called, she was then cast with impatience for some other physician remedial agent. Even then was brooked upon compromise, and would not consent to the until she had given the master a night's consideration.—E. C.

It does an earnest newspaper man, who has despised his opportunities, and is devoting his talents to transcribing hotel registers and announcing the birth of other people's babies, a world of good to get the news from his old home in the states and learn that the chaps who were so unpromising, foolish & ignorant when he left, are now geniuses in the militia, in members of the legislature, and the masters of numerous oilfields. Such heroes cannot be drowned in bitter milk. Nothing but straight whisky is equal to emergency and temperance pledges are bladders, barren realities.—Albuquerque Journal.

Parties inserting legal advertisements in the Evening Epitaph, alias the "Boiler plate," will wake up some morning and find that they have the entire work of publication to do over again, as that institution is on the verge of collapse and is liable to cease any day now. Already its printers have struck and quit work, and the parties publishing it are doing so merely to the out of existence, as they have no other interest whatever in the institution, and its issues the past few days have been gotten up by the aid of outside volunteer assistance. Note the Tombstone. It is a figure in the Epitaph and, therefore, is the only reliable paper in which to insert legal and other advertisements, and besides, it has the largest circulation, and is the best paper generally. Advertising in the Tombstone will be safe.
